1988

Try,
Power Tech. has been a pain
and a bore, but we made it through.
I hope you have a blast in the rest of your High School Days. I'll see you around it Probably over the next few years but if I don't good luck in the future.

Yours Friend

Home Ec students get experience in child development.

The Home Ec Department's Child Development class conducts a nursery school allowing its students to work with children, 3-5. Students help teach the children shapes, colors and the alphabet while playing games and making crafts.

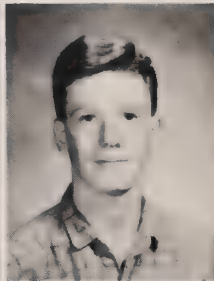

Many students who take the child development class are planning futures in child-related careers.

Creativity, enthusiasm, and imagination are the only tools one needs to create magnificent pots. Mr. Keith Herchroether is the teacher of this clay working class. Beginners and advanced potters make their pots by hand building and throwing them on the wheel.

Mugs, cookie jars, and vases are popular items, but occasionally one might see a parchesi set or teddy bear carried down the hall. Students may not be guaranteed the mastery of working with clay, but they will enjoy using their creations.

Let's say it again!

When it comes to the best, our Indians, WPIAL champs, are No. 1 in the whole USA

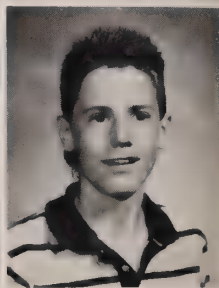

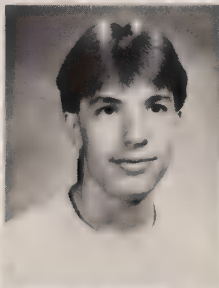

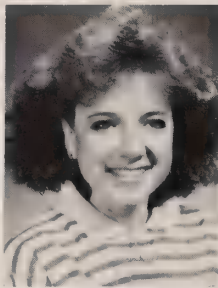

There aren't words enough or pages enough in this yearbook to extol the 1987 Indian football team. The gridgers have done more than anyone else ever did to bring wide national attention to North Hills. To have completed an undefeated season and have won the WPIAL championship might have been enough glory but for our Indians, picked the No. 1 team in the country by USA Today, to have maintained that rating throughout a grueling season, was the test of true champions. College coaches have been crowding our halls recruiting Indians.

Duane Hitchcock is one Indian the recruiters will have to wait for. Many of the team members are in the class of '88, but others, like Duane, will carry on next fall.

It's like magic

Wood shop students learn to turn a piece of wood into something useful or an object of beauty

The elective Wood 1 and Wood 2 courses are an introduction to hand and power tool operation as related to the woodworking and plastics industry. The instructional methods used consist of projects, demonstrations, lectures, films and tests. Projects for the first semester are small and introductory in nature, designed to familiarize the student with the various tools, machines and processes. Second semester projects are larger, designed to incorporate most of the basic processes learned. Some beautiful furniture has been produced in North Hills' wood classes

Students discover that World Foods are better than cafeteria

There are three different food classes or courses in North Hills High School. They are Basic, Gourmet and World Foods. Mrs. Carey and Mrs. Hartman are the instructors for these courses.

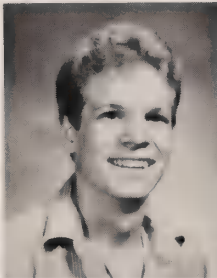

Students in these classes are discussing the relative merits of their latest culinary creations.

Future engineers, draftsmen get basic skills, training in technical drawing class

Technical Drawing is another of the Industrial Arts/ Technology elective courses offered at North Hills for young men and young women. The course is designed to include a wide variety of subject matter and drawing problems. It includes units in sketching, lettering, introduction to blue-print reading, use of instruments, pictorial drafting, orthographic interpretation, dimensioning, sectioning, sheetmetal developments, basic architecture, and drawing reproduction. This course is recommended for students who have an interest in drafting, engineering or in a technical education. Technical Drawing 1 and Technical Drawing 2 each meet five periods a week for a full year.

These students of Technical Drawing may also elect a one-semester course in Architectural Drawing, during which they will design an energy saving home of tomorrow, complete with floor plan and elevations.

When you don't feel well, the nurse's office is the place to be.

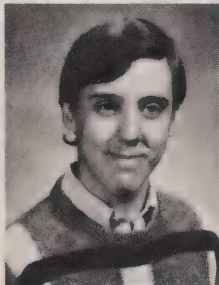

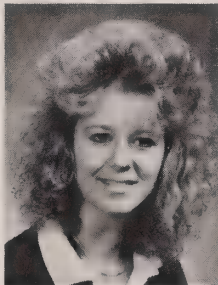

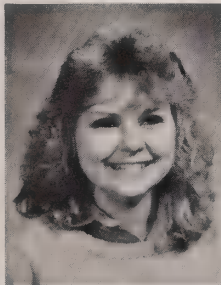

In a school of almost 1500 students, it follows that some of them are going to feel ill every day. These upsets can run from simple headaches to fever, nausea to serious stomach upset. The office is ready to help.

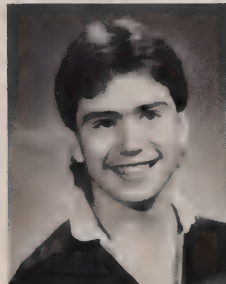

Mrs. Holler checks the temperature of one student, at right, while above, another student uses the handy cot.

Look into future

Business students get chance to learn computer technology in a business-like atmosphere

The Office of the Future was designed and built for our school in the spring of 1986. Our office contains ten Apple MacIntosh computers and a Lazerwriter printer. The facility is used for most business courses including accounting, data processing, word processing and office technologies. The software used includes MacWrite, MacOffice, MacPaint and Jazz. This room gives students an opportunity to use the up-to-date technology that is found in the real business world so they have an edge when they start looking for a job after commencement.

Evon Spoonhoward and Debbie Palmieri expressing pleasure at the successful fulfillment of a difficult computer assignment. In the past two years, many other students have shared in this same delight.

North Hills High School Alma Mater

Words and Music by Linda Naumann - 1957

*We're united sons and daughters,
Bound in love and praise for thee,
North Hills High, our Alma Mater,
Ever faithful we will be.*

Refrain

*Alma Mater, we shall treasure
Memories that never die.
Though the years go swiftly by,
We'll be true to North Hills High.*

Second Stanza - Martha Willis - 1958

*Thru thy hallowed halls re-echo
Voices gay, untouched by fears.
For within thy walls we gather
Courage for the coming years.*

Refrain

Third Stanza - Voice Classes - 1958

*Alma Mater, strong and glorious,
High atop the summit's brow,
Proudly we shall laud and honor,
For to serve thee is our vow.*

Refrain

Fourth Stanza - Keith Campbell - 1958

*When the twilight fades around us,
We shall dream of glories past.
Our beloved Alma Mater,
Thoughts of thee will always last.*

Refrain

The 1988 Norhian has been published by Jostens Printing and Publishing, State College, Pa. The base color of the cover is off white with a superimposed red Indian designed by Jostens.

The end paper is 65-pound snow white paper with artists' designs by Fred Baxter and Jim Ebbert in 100% black. The typography is Avant Garde and Avant Garde Bold and Italic in all type sizes. The advertising section was reset in many faces to give a sense of separateness and identity.

Pictures were taken by Strem Varden Studios, Ron Westerman Photography, North Hills News Record and staff and faculty photographers.

The book contains 16 pages in full full-color process printing.
